WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

Hebrews 10:23-25

Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; for he is faithful that promised; And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching.

From the Pastor's Desk...

You owe the best to the rest of your life. I always say, “I’ve never seen a past that deserved the future – especially a negative one. The people and experiences that make up our past are rarely cell mates with us in our emotional prison.

What we give to the past, the offender, the culprit or the guilty party is a piece of our life, our heart and our peace. The past that we hold on to, occupies a place in our soul that bullies our mind, and can even terrorize our emotions.

When we surrender the past to the truth, the healing process can begin. The truth is, nothing we do about, think about or stay angry about from the past is going to change the past, it changes our future. Letting go of the past is not the same as forgetting, letting go means that the past does not deserve your future and you deserve to be free.

It’s not always easy to let go, we’re human. Letting go is never microwavable – no matter who you are. Letting go is a process and during the process we have to speak life over our future, honor our value and accept what we cannot control. You deserve your future and all of its possibilities, promises and potential. Moving beyond the past unlocks the door to the future and stops history from robbing your destiny. Every day that I return to the past, I am abandoning my future. I am no longer going to stalk yesterday, yester-them or yester-problems. Today, I am going to start letting go, growing past and accepting responsibility for my thoughts and actions. God said, “Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, the new creation has come. The old has gone, the new is here!”
(2 Corinthians 5:17, NIV).

I am new, I am learning forward, I am celebrating my powerful potential, and I am going to start reminding myself that the past is not stalking me, I am stalking my past.
